Congressmen to Visit the Project

From there an effort will be made to inspect the Keno power plant before the banquet.

It cannot be said at present how many of the appropriations committee will be able to take the trip. The personnel of the committee during the last congress is as follows:

John J. Fitzgerald of New York (chairman), Swager Sherley of Kentucky, Charles L. Bartlett of Georgia, J. T. Johnson of South Carolina, Robert N. Page of North Carolina, George W. Rauch of Indiana, Joseph W. Byrnes of Tennessee, T. U. Sisson of Mississippi, Eugene F. Kinkaid of New Jersey, W. P. Borland of Missouri, George White of Ohio, James McAndrews of Illinois, B. F. Mahan of Connecticut, Wooda N. Carr of Pennsylvania, G. Frederick N. Gillett of Massachusetts, James W. Good of Iowa, Frank W. Mondell of Wyoming, Charles N. Davis of Minnesota, William M. Calder of New York, W. S. Vane of Pennsylvania, William H. Hinebaugh of Illinois.

Congressman N. J. Sinnott of the second Oregon district will, in spite of several speaking dates he has about that time, make a strong effort to be at Klamath Falls at the time of the visit of the committee. He tried to get the committee to inspect some other districts in Oregon besides Klamath and Hermiston, but on account of the hurried nature of the trip the committee decided to inspect no proposed projects, but only those already under way.

Taking Testimony Started at Trial

ing the road. Brown's horse was found some distance from the scene that morning by an Indian at such a time that the crime must have been committed within an hour after the last Indian saw them together, watched them go by on horseback.

The statement by Judge Gale for the defense that admitted the committing of the crime on the reservation, the possession by George of that particular gun, but question his having it at the gambling ground, owing to a confusion of witnesses. They claim also, that the chain of circumstantial evidence worked up by the government and to be presented, is of a grave nature for the defendant, but that there are a number of points in it where other Indians might be picked as easily for doing the deed. Also that there were two or three other Indians, one in particular, who had more cause for killing Brown.

Gale also spoke of a close friendship of the deceased and the defendant which had extended for two years previous to the killing, and that there was little or no actual cause for George being accused.

Elbert Chiloquin is the other man who might be implicated, and who, Gale stated, also possessed a Smith & Wesson gun of the same type as George had. Also, as is supposed, the trouble occurred over a girl, Oma Hubbard, and he stated that owing to some trouble at the Miller George home, which seemed to be a general hotel without charge for the Indians, Chiloquin had left previous to the date of the killing. The defendant's actions after the finding of the body, said by the prosecution to be suspicious, were denied by the defense, owing to an Indian tradition.

Eleven men were selected out of the regular venire of thirty-eight men yesterday, and from a special venire of ten men Frank Ward was accepted this morning. The jurors are F. D. Stephenson, Josiah Rhodes, Charles Burkhalter and George H. Sparley of Josephine county; J. D. Corum, Curtis Duvall and William Hotchkiss of Lake county; R. W. Tower, Walter Turner, U. E. Reeder and Frank Ward of Klamath county; and John Byrne of Jackson county.

Several of the Klamath county men examined were excused because they stated that they had formed opinions regarding the case. R. W. McCracken, a Grants Pass newspaper man, had pronounced views against the death penalty, and was excused. At a meeting of the retail liquor dealers of the town last night, United States District Attorney Reames secured a promise from them not to sell bottled liquor while the trial is in progress. This will eliminate much of the bootlegging traffic.

FREER TO ISSUE PERMITS AT HALL

LOCAL ANGLERS WANTING CARDS

ENTITLING THEM TO FISH ON THE RESERVATION CAN GET THEM AT HOTEL

For the convenience of Klamath county sportsmen desiring to fish on the reservation streams, Superintendent Freer has arranged to be at the Hotel Hall from 8 to 9 tomorrow morning and from 1 to 2 in the afternoon, to issue them permits. This will save a trip to the Agency, and is much appreciated here.

"All sportsmen wishing these permits must bring their state fishing licenses with them," said Mr. Freer today. "Any sportsman not acquainted with me should have a friend introduce or recommend him, as the fishing privilege is being extended only to responsible parties, who will recognize the rights of the Indians on their own reservation."

The permit makes the following explanation: "Notwithstanding that the treaty of 1864 between the United States and the Klamaths reserves to the latter the exclusive right to fish upon the reservation, the Indians wish to arrange the fishing privilege to their white friends, so long as the supply of fish is sufficient for both. Both the individual and tribal rights of the proprietors must be carefully respected."

The regulations follow: The permittee must have a license to fish issued by the State of Oregon. He must observe all the requirements of the fishing laws of the State of Oregon.

He must scrupulously comply with all the laws of the United States pertaining to the introduction of intoxicating liquor into the Indian country. If practicable, he must secure permission from the owners of an allotment before going upon same. In no case may an allotment be entered upon contrary to the expressed wishes of the owner.

The permittee must obey all of the laws and regulations of the United States in regard to the prevention of forest fires, and must exercise due care to prevent damage of any kind to fences, crops and other property. The permit is revokable at any time.

Hawaiian Festivities at Exposition United Press Service

SAN FRANCISCO, June 11.—Former Queen Liliuokalani of Hawaii and her royal suite are here today to participate in the Hawaiian festivities at the Panama-Pacific exposition in honor of the late King Kamehameha, mighty warrior. Kanaka is the popular language at the fair grounds. Sandwich Islanders, clad in coral trappings, linger in palm-roofed arbors and vine-clad retreats, singing the plaintive melodies of the romantic tropics to the accompaniment of wiled ukuleles.

All visitors wear the beautiful wreaths woven by our dusky citizens of the Pacific Isles. The Queen herself, who wrote Aloha, joined in the singing of the sad chorus. Hula-hula maidens made merry in the shadows of the Hawaiian pavilion as night fell.

Moving Pictures

On few occasions has there been a bill offered at the Orpheus on which were so many stars as that to be presented tonight. Francis Ford and Grace Cunard, who gained fame in the leads of "Luelle Love," will be seen in a two-part stirring war drama, "The Gateway of Destruction," while popular Mary Fuller takes the stellar role in the powerful drama, "The Golden Beetle." "A Buried City," an education subject taken in Egypt by Homer Croy, the famous humorist, and "They Were on Their Honeymoon," comedy, complete the five part program.

Home From Expo.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Motschenbacher returned last night from a ten day visit at the exposition. They express themselves delighted, not only with the fair as a whole, but also with the Oregon building and display, which they say are among the best on the ground.
